"I CERTAINLY LEARNT A DEAL ABOUT THE EARLY YEARS AND DEVELOPMENT OF OUR NATIONAL SPORT AND THE PART THAT THE CITY OF SHEFFIELD PLAYED. IT IS A FASCINATING READ".

RICHARD CABORN, MP FOR SHEFFIELD CENTRAL,
MINISTER FOR SPORT 2001-2007

Known simply as the Club, Sheffield FC was 150 years old in October 2007. In From Sheffield with Love Brendan Murphy traces both its birth and the growth of football in the city, which can justly claim to have given organised football to the world. The book also makes the link between Australian Rules football and Sheffield football as well as discussing the development of sport in Victorian England.

Brendan Murphy was born and raised in Sheffield. Now an Associate Professor in psychiatry at Monash University and Director of the Southern Health Early Psychosis Service, he lives in Melbourne, Australia, with his partner Katrina and their newborn baby boy, Sebastian.
